

GWYN

Over the past few weeks, I've been spending meaningful time with students during this assessment period, working with our incredible Advice Team. Together, we've been supporting students with their submissions, offering guidance, reassurance, and a friendly space during what can often be a stressful time.

I've also been working with the University to spread the word about a fantastic resource right here on the Birmingham campus — our free Book Wall. This open space allows any student to take or donate books, encouraging the joy of reading, expanding vocabulary, and creating opportunities for students to connect with each other through shared interests.

And now for what's coming up! I'm very excited to share some upcoming pop-up events taking place soon on both the Birmingham and London campuses. Our next pop-up will be a Lemonade Stand offering free lemonade alongside open conversations about your student journey so far. It's a relaxed chance to share feedback — from academic experiences to future events and initiatives you'd love to see as part of your student life.

Looking forward to seeing many of you there and continuing to create spaces that support, inspire, and connect our student community.
